He’s not a bad person. He’s got a wife and kids. . . . I’m sure he has learned and grown from it.” Coker said that, like all performers, he has made mistakes in the past. “I think, with the right support, I can be better and learn from it and grow from it and stay out of trouble,” Coker said. “I’m not someone who wants to keep on doing that.” “I want to get to a point where I can continue to write and make movies in a positive way,” he added. “People shouldn’t think I’m a bad person because of what I’ve done.” Coker has been involved in the independent film scene since his college days at UCLA and graduated from the USC School of Cinematic Arts in 2010. “I’ve learned a lot from my peers on the independent side,” Coker said. “I want to learn more.” Coker has produced several short films and the upcoming horror movie “Big Fat Liar,” which recently wrapped principal photography. He also has a producing deal with Revolution Studios and recently has been involved in the creation of a science
